Prohibition for war period is urged by British.

Dr. Addison and Lord D'Abernon believe it best for national well-being.

LONDON, Feb. 12—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquor during the war and for the period of demobilization was urged the other day upon Dr. Christopher Addison, Cabinet Minister, without portfolio in charge of reconstruction, by a deputation from the "Strength of Britain" movement.

Dr. Addison expressed agreement with many of the arguments advanced by the deputation but reminded them that whatever might be an ideal measure for the national well being, it would not be suited to application. His experience in the Ministry of Munitions showed him, he said, that to make restrictions exceeding the willingness of the people to whom they were to apply was calculated to aggravate evils which the restrictions aimed to correct.

Lord D'Abernon, Chairman of the L-4 Control Board, on the same subject said, "It is sincerely hoped that during demobilization there will be no relaxations of the regulations now in force. The return to this country of men who will naturally feel themselves entitled to a certain amount of pleasure will create conditions wherein excess might burst forth again, and therefore it will be very unwise to adopt a relaxation which might create a national disaster."

"If the present system of restrictions in regard to the sale of drink is maintained for a few months this country will be able to claim that it has advanced further along the path of temperance reform than any country in the world."

APPLY FORCE TO PROPAGANDISTS IN ILL. COUNTIES

Suspects Made To Kiss Flag While Others Are Tared And Feathered.

INNOCENT MAN IS KILLED

[By Associated Press to The Banner]

ST. LOUIS, March 4—Enforced loyalty has been placed on a business basis in Macoupin, Madison and Montgomery counties in southern Illinois where the activities of pro-German propagandists recently became so pronounced that vigilance committees in numerous towns have forced hundreds of suspected persons to make public manifestations of their allegiance to the government. In one town two alleged leaders of seditious movements were tarred and feathered.

Branches of the American Defense Society operating through vigilance committees in practically every town in the district have taken the lead in stamping out disloyalty. The first move to oust the propagandists was made in Staunton where an alleged leader of the I. W. W. and a Chicago attorney were escorted to the city limits, coated with tar and feathers and started walking in different directions. The reason for this aggression was said to be the activity of the men in causing dissension among several thousand coal miners near Staunton.

On the same night more than one hundred persons were made to sign pledges of loyalty.

News of the use of such stern measures spread and within a week Worden, Mount Olive, Gillespie, Williamson, Hillsboro and several other smaller towns made demonstrations. In some of these towns scores of persons were taken from their homes and requested to make public profession of loyalty. Several men were taken from their beds and, kneeling on the sidewalk, were forced to kiss every star in the flag. Some were made to sing the national anthem while others were compelled to play patriotic airs on musical instruments. Protests against such action were construed as evidences of disloyalty. In several such instances arrests were made and federal charges preferred against the men.

The most serious result of the demonstrations was in Hillsboro where Clifford Donaldson, 21 years old, was shot when the vigilance committee called at his father's home in search of I. W. W. members. Shots were exchanged. Donaldson was killed and

E. B. Emory, city marshal, and Ernest Plath were wounded. Later it was learned Donaldson had enlisted in the navy only a few days before his death and that his father was unacquainted with any of the suspected persons.

Members of the vigilance committee deny that they counsel violence. They declare that their actions have the approval of civic officers. They insist that the district embraced by Macoupin, Madison and Montgomery counties for some time has been the objective of an active campaign by pro-German sympathizers.

As evidence of their success they point to a recent meeting of representatives of more than 1,600 members of a miners' union in Staunton. In less than one week after two alleged seditious leaders had been tarred and feathered, the union voted a contribution of $810 per month for the Red Cross, purchased $1,000 worth of thrift stamps, reinstated all members who had lost standing because of army or navy enlistment, arranged for payment of their dues during the period of the war, and ended a mass meeting in such a burst of patriotic fervor that the singing of the national anthem was drowned in cheers for President Wilson and the government.

Reports from other cities where demonstrations were staged indicate that the same leaven of patriotism is at work and that prospects are bright for a fulfillment of the wish of "loyalty" leaders that the district be made "one hundred per cent American."

75 RELIGIONS AT CAMP TRAVIS IS THE ESTIMATE

Agnostics And Infidels Are Among Those Shown Up By The Census.

94 CLASSED AS C. O.'S

[By Associated Press to The Banner]

SAN ANTONIO, March 4—More than seventy-five religious denominations are represented at Camp Travis, where the Nineteenth Army Division is being prepared for war. Christian, Jew, Catholic, Protestant, Confucian, Mormon, Buddhist—all are found in the roster of the division according to a census just completed by the camp. The census also discovered several agnostics and infidels. The division is made up mostly of national army men from Oklahoma, Texas and other western states with a sprinkling of national guard regiments from the north.

Baptists lead in the membership with 8,250. Methodists are next with 6,144. Other denominations with more than 1,000 members are Christians 2,721, Roman Catholics, 2,325, and Presbyterians 1,836. The comparatively small proportion of Roman Catholics, it was said, was due to the fact that the membership of the camp was drawn chiefly from small rural districts in the southwest.

Ninety-four men in the camp, who profess religious convictions against soldiering, have been assigned to less warlike duties, most of them having found places in the "Kitchen Police." Twelve infidels, one atheist and fourteen agnostics were listed and one soldier called himself a pagan and another said he was a pantheist, single representatives appeared also of the Millennial Dawn brotherhood and Confucianism. There are two Buddhists, fourteen Mormons, eleven Reorganized Mormons, six Russellites, one Meggido, one Pilgrim, eight Holy Rollers, two Christadelphians and one Bantest, who combine with numerous subdivisions of the better known denominations to make up the heterogeneous whole.

Every effort is made to provide opportunity for the men to worship and practice whatever religion they profess. "Religious freedom" is an actuality here and not just a catchphrase. All of the larger denominations hold regular services while all men have opportunity for individual attention to their spiritual wants.
